

MRS. MINTURN PINCHOT, CHAIRMAN of the BOX COMMITTEE for the ERIKA MORINI RECITAL at CARNEGIE HALL THIS AFTERNOON for SERBIAN CHILD WELFARE.

CLEVER AMATEUR PLAYERS NO LONGER HIDE THEIR TALENTS AT PRIVATE ENTERTAINMENTS

THE woman who was overheard to say at the opening performance of the Junior League's musical review, "Musical Chairs," last Wednesday night, "I never supposed there was so much general ability among young men and women," displayed her ignorance of social conditions in decades of society beyond her ken. There was just as much general culture and specific cleverness in New York society in the days reached by the memories of the present generation, but the public never knew of it.

It has become the habit among certain critics of society, who have failed to adapt themselves to untrammelled modern life, to speak of "the unfortunate willingness on the part of our nice people to make themselves public." They ignore the eloquent fact that necessity has demolished the social fences of other years, made cleverness a public asset and in five years of world reconstruction has turned society into a public playground.

Those social fences never will be rebuilt. The feminine world, that in other years developed beautiful voices or exhibited exceptional proficiency and grace in dancing, and sang and danced in guarded privacy, now exhibits its accomplishments in public, and by so doing turns thousands of dollars to excellent uses.

The old order of seclusion has passed with the opening of a new social era, and to-day in society the rule is to display rather than hide individual achievement.

Strangers to society sat amid dotting parents in the three audiences that crowded the ballroom of the Waldorf-Astoria last Wednesday, Thursday and Friday nights and added their hundreds to the thousands that were sent into the treasury of the Junior League to extend the philanthropic ramifications of that organization into a new day nursery and a boarding home for working girls.

They saw debutantes dance with the proficient abandon of professional actresses; do what is necessary to complete dramatic action, even to the smoking of cigarettes, and sing much better than some other choruses in the professional realm of high lights a few blocks northward.

Life in modern New York society.

Debutantes to Aid Boys' Club.
Some of the debutantes who will take part in the two acts and twelve scenes of "Musical Chairs" are in rehearsal for a performance in the Hippodrome on the night of March 12 under the direction of Mr. Gen. Al. Hagedorn for the benefit of the Boys' Club of New York. The professional stage will collaborate, as it has frequently done in the past, and a number of the debutantes will be assisted by Mr. Hagedorn, Mr. Charles H. Sablin, Mr. Robert Bacon, Mrs. C. Herbert Kinnelott, Mrs. Henry L. Brooks, Mrs. William Stillinger, Jr., Mrs. Grayson M. Murphy, Mrs. William L. Benedict, Mrs. George E. Vincent and other women who have become modern forces in expanded society will be patronesses.

"The Frolic of Youth" is the very apt name given to the part of the programme in which the debutantes will participate. It is a collaboration of some of the leading men and women from present Broadway plays. A scene, once very tall and very substantial, has been demolished to make such a collaboration possible. The programme also is to include a number of tableaux representing famous boys of history and literature, such as Oliver Twist, Hans Brinker, "Treasure Island," Huck Finn, the young Daniel Boone, and Robin Hood, the boys from Kipling's "The Drums of the Fore and Aft," and a matter of course, Tom Sawyer. Miss Ruth Chatterton will recite a prologue which Mr. Charles Hanson Tompkins has written, and there are to be some things about the programme that will make the benefit for the Boys' Club one of the most unusual incidents of the kind a Sunday night audience in a New York theatre ever saw.

Amateurs to Cooper.
Next Wednesday afternoon society again will take significant exception to a strict constructionist past when two amateurs, whose abilities have forced them forward, will appear on the concert stage in conjunction with a popular professional singer in the ballroom of the home of Mrs. John Sanford, 5 East Seventy-second street, for the benefit of the Belgian Missionary Sisters, who are at 137 West Forty-seventh street, was dedicated by Cardinal Mercier during that beloved prelate's visit to New York in 1915. The amateur artists will be the Duchesse de Richelieu, soprano, and Mrs. Drexel Dahlgren, harpist, and one of the most proficient of amateur musicians in society. Their professional collaborator, who has given his services, will be Rafael Diaz, one of the tenors of the Metropolitan Opera.

The matinee concert will be under the patronage of the Belgian Ambassadors and Baroness de Cartier de Marchienne and a number of women of society, including Mrs. A. Leo Everett, Countess de Laugier-Villars, and Misses John G. Agar, De Lancy, Anne Kane, Henry J. Lamarche, Hamilton Fish Armstrong, Pierre Mall, Nicholas P. Brady, Robert Grier Monroe, James Byrne, Frederic Neilson, John W. Maclean, Greenville Temple Emmet, Lyttleton Fox, Abbot Low Dow, Thomas F. Ryan, Harold Henderson, William F. Sheehan, Ernest J. ## MOVEMENT TO FREE TOWN HALL OF DEBT

Many of New York's leading civic workers who are endeavoring to develop a real community life in this city are leaders in the movement to free the Town Hall from debt and put it at the disposal of the citizens of New York. The opening note in the movement was struck on Tuesday last at the Hotel Gotham when Messrs. Henry W. Taft, Robert Simon and other officials of the League for Political Education launched the appeal. Mrs. John A. Hartwell was hostess at the meeting, which followed an informal reception and tea. At that time the Carnegie Corporation announced a gift of $25,000 to help the cause along.

Mr. Taft, chairman of the board of directors of the league, urged citizens to cooperate in the movement to free the hall from debt so that it can be dedicated permanently to the cause of fostering the community spirit in matters affecting the public welfare.

"At present," said Mr. Taft, "the hall can be at the service of the community to a very limited extent only. It must be rented on a commercial basis the larger part of the time. It cannot to the fullest extent therefore perform its ideal function as a Town Hall. The two floors above the auditorium, which are to be devoted to small meeting and committee rooms, free social science library, restaurant and clubrooms, are still unfinished. To pay what is now due outside of the mortgages and to finish the upper floors $500,000 is required at once. After that is obtained we wish to discharge the mortgage indebtedness of about $300,000. We therefore need an aggregate sum of $1,800,000."

A special campaign committee with Mr. Taft as chairman has charge of the task of raising funds. Mrs. Elgin R. L. Gould is vice-chairman of the committee. The other members include Mrs. Alexander, Mr. George W. Wickes, Mrs. E. Henry Harriman, Mr. Frank A. Vandergilt, Miss Spence, Messrs. Otto H. Kahn, Henry Mowbray, Morgan J. O'Brien and Robert E. Simon. Mrs. Henry Fairfield Osborn, Mr. Robert Brinkley, Mr. Samuel McCune Lindsay, Mr. John A. Poynton, Mr. Adolph Lewisohn, Mrs. Robert G. Mead, Mr. William Church Osborne and Mrs. Schuyler N. Warren.

WOMEN ENTERTAINED AT SEWING CLASSES

While there have been many activities of a various nature during the Lenten season, the sewing classes have not been neglected, their members meeting regularly once a week to sew for charity. These meetings are far from dull, for while the women are busy applying the needle they are entertained with music or recitations. Not only do they sew at these weekly gatherings, but many of them take work home, to be completed before the next meeting. It would be a difficult task to estimate just how many garments will be made by the various classes before Easter. Some of them work for hospitals, others for homes attached to churches, while still others for the needy children like those under the care of the Little Mothers' Aid Association for instance.

At Happy Day House, 236 Second avenue, headquarters of the association, of which Mrs. Clarence Burns is president, the members of the association met every Wednesday morning to make garments for the "little mothers." Among those interested in this work are Misses F. H. Kiddie, William D. Mann, G. W. Gearling, J. K. Green, John H. Judge, William Grant Brown, Bond Stow, Albert G. Wood, K. M. Carrington, William H. Gouley, Duncan McPherson, James E. Pack, L. M. Carr, J. J. Cowdrey, H. P. Lloyd, Alfred Watts Kiddie, Noble McConnell, Benjamin Adair, James R. Sullivan and Miss C. C. Patterson.

The children of the association are looked after by Auxiliary No. 1, which meets every Tuesday morning at the home of Miss Jane Lovell, 27 West Ninety-seventh street. The articles made at these sessions are sent to the Loving Arms Day Nursery, a branch of the association where children are left during the day while their mothers are away at work. Mrs. Theodore Connolly is in charge of this class, which includes among its members Misses Bond Stow, David Knapp, Richard R. Reed, Benglar Cairns, Volmer Homberg, A. J. Wardell, J. M. Duncan and Charles Lemke.

The Women's Auxiliary of the French Hospital at 40 West Thirty-fourth street is holding weekly sewing classes during Lent at the residence of Mrs. Jose M. Ferrer, 16 East Sixty-sixth street, on Friday afternoons. All the articles made will be given to the social agent, of which Mrs. Charles H. May is chairman.

The board of managers of the Derricks House for Cripple Children meet every Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Thomas

Willard, 44 Riverside Drive, to sew for their charges. Among those who take an active interest in the work are Mrs. Nicholas M. Pond, Miss Susan Skelding, Mrs. E. H. Geisenhainer, Mrs. W. L. Bauer, Miss E. F. Gregory, Mrs. Alfred H. Morris, Mrs. E. W. Munnell and Mrs. Marshall Darrach.

St. Agnes's Lenten Sewing Class meets every Monday afternoon at the Parish House, on West Ninety-second street. It works for the mothers and children who are cared for by God's Providence House and St. Esmarbas's House.

There is another sewing class connected with St. Agnes's Chapel, which meets every week throughout the year. It was started four years ago, and was known as War Relief work, but after the armistice, that name being no longer appropriate, it was changed to Eastern Relief Sewing Society. That name also has not proved satisfactory, so it has been decided to call it the Emergency Relief Sewing Society. The garments now being made are to be sent to Armenia and Syria.

SOUTHERNERS' ANNUAL DANCE ON MARCH 14

Without waiting for the Easter season citizens of New York of Southern birth are arranging their annual dance for the benefit of the Blue Ridge Industrial School of Greene county, Virginia. It will be held on March 14 at the Vanderbilt Hotel. At this school its teachers come in close touch with the mountaineers and their children, and through instruction received while at the school the graduates, though not many, are doing much in lifting the general level of life in those sections. Products of the school farm, orchard and cannery are taken to Richmond, Va., where they are sold for the benefit of the institution.

Mrs. Stuart G. Gibbonsy is at the head of the ball committee, and associated with her are Princesses Pierre Troubatzky, Misses George Jordan, Bessie T. Gaunt, Walton H.
